

HCM Sales, Marketing and Alliance Excellence

ESSENTIALS

» 02.2017

Vol.16 No. 02

Essentials of team leadership

PRESENTED BY

HR.com
Leading HR Professionals to Lead

Should Leaders
Reward Effort
Instead Of Results?
2 reasons why

Attracting Sales People
Using Marketing
Tactics
Nurturing best sales people into job candidates!

How To Have Those
Uncomfortable
Conversations At Work?
7 tips for success

News And Views On
HR Technology
Alliances
A sneak-peek into what awaits in 2017

HOW TO SELL HR SOFTWARE RIGHT?

8 top mistakes that undermine the value of your solution

Trina M

HR.com Adobe Sign There's a better way to land top talent. E-signatures for all-digital experiences. Learn more

ePubs - HCM Sales, Marketing and Alliance Excellence Essentials - February 2017 Sales and Service

Like 0 Share 0 Tweet 0 in Share 0 Email 0

EXCELLENCE ESSENTIALS ARTICLE SUBSCRIBE. IT'S FREE!

Overt Operations: How to beat your competitors

Posted on 02-12-2017, by:

5.0 from 1 votes

I was looking for a word that describes the passion that I have and how to relate to companies what I believe about "Customer Service." It's what I firmly believe is necessary to operate in the world today. The word is "Overt" or done or shown publicly and not secret. I have been dealing with customer service in a overt manner for 46 years. It has been the focus of my entire adult life. Here's what I have discovered and continue to share with companies:

It's ALL about Training Why do I believe in investing in continuous employee training and development? Some organizations ignore continuous training sessions for employees as they feel they are expensive and employees miss out on their work time which causes delays in completion of projects. What they don't understand are the benefits of these continuous training sessions and how they contribute to the organization in the overall bigger picture! Benefits of conducting these programs are far greater and long-lasting.

Training Makes Superstars A constant training program allows you to develop and strengthen the skills of your employees that they need or should improve upon. It takes care of issues you are having now and corrects behavior and attitudes. It ensures the same mistakes are not repeated again. It is a great way to promote productivity and teamwork.

Training helps Employees find What They Love to do Lower your training costs while increasing employee training effectiveness. Show them that they are valued. Show them they are appreciated. Challenge them to work harder. Challenge them to move up the ladder and become more satisfied with their job and their earning potential. In the words of Steve Jobs, "Sometimes life hits you in the head with a brick. Don't lose faith. I'm convinced that the only thing that kept me going was that I loved what I did. You've got to find what you love."

Training Helps Employees Connect the Dots Another note about Steve Jobs is he looked at training as "dots". It was impossible to connect the dots looking forward but it was very, very clear looking backward. You have to trust that the dots will somehow connect in your future". That is why I strongly believe in continuous training as it empowers employees. It gives them confidence and keeps them up-to-date on new developments in their industry and the marketplace.

It keeps them aware of what the consumer is looking for and how to provide an awesome customer experience. Armed with this information, employees have the confidence to perform better, and to come up with new ideas for the company and each other. They become one unit, all going after the same goals. A team of competent and knowledgeable employees is all that a company needs to compete successfully and hold a strong position in the industry.

Smart Leaders put People before Numbers Take a look at all the great companies of the world, Amazon, Apple, Costco, Metro Bank, etc. etc. Their goal, their mission statement is the same, they are all fanatics about training and customer service. They all have their employee's training and welfare foremost in the business plan. Disney attributes its enviable achievement in employee commitment and customer service to "pixie dust." The formula for pixie dust is not secret. It is Training + Communication + Care =

Advertise Here There's a better way to welcome new employees. E-signatures for all-digital experiences. Learn more

Member Content Blogs | Questions | Events | HR Groups | Members

Rich text editor with options: Wall Post, Press Release, Blog, Question, White Paper, Event, SUBMIT

Events Upcoming Events Past Events Public Events

- Webcasts: 21st February 2017, 1:00 PM: What you don't know CAN hurt you: Planning for Change in the Year Ahead; 22nd February 2017, 10:00 AM: Practical Strategies for Powerful Candidate Selection; 22nd February 2017, 11:00 AM: Innovation in HR: Leave Management Systems

- Virtual Conferences: 22 February 2017: HRIS and Payroll; 22 March 2017: Training and Development; 28 March 2017: Leadership

Advertise Here

Pride. You'll notice that training is number one.

So, What are you Waiting for?

Organizations of all kinds seem to handcuff their employees with rules and policies. They clearly tell employees "Do what you are told. Follow the rules." That's where training and communicating take center stage for me. The best companies put employee growth at the center of their strategies. I believe renewal and reinforcement is essential. It's a serious error for management to turn their backs and not become active in on-going training. It's a disservice to their employees.

When your employees are happy and loyal, you reduce the costs of training, have happy employees, happy customers and you increase your effectiveness in the marketplace. It's a win/win for everyone and it dramatically affects your bottom-line.

You can never be too fanatical about service. Make it your goal to have 100% customer service every time, every day, always!—John Tschohl. HCM SMA

Author Bio

John Tschohl is an international service strategist and speaker. He is Founder and President of the Service Quality Institute in Minneapolis, Minnesota. Described by Time and Entrepreneur magazines as a customer service guru, he has written seven books on customer service.

Visit www.johntschohl.com

Connect John Tschohl

Follow @johnschohl

Category : service

Tags : customer service leaders training

This article was published in the following issue of Excellence Essentials:

February 2017 Sales and Service

Excellence Essentials Publications give you an interactive online experience with access to articles, case studies, industry trends, links to videos and audio clips. You can also receive monthly notifications for each of your favourite publications.

SUBSCRIBE. IT'S FREE!

 Print

Comments

Write a comment

There's a better way to welcome new employees.
E-signatures for all-digital experiences.

Learn more